Am I eligible to apply? What are the criteria?

Please read the eligibility criteria for the applicants as detailed in the CRP ‘Guidelines for Applicants’ document that can be downloaded from the submission website:

<http://cr.theisn.org/res/p/guidelines/>.

Is my proposed research project eligible? What are the criteria?

Please read the eligibility criteria for the projects as detailed in the CRP ‘Guidelines for Applicants’ document that can be downloaded from the submission website:

<http://cr.theisn.org/res/p/guidelines/>.

Can the Principal Investigator be located in a country that is not in the Low and Middle Income Country (LMIC) category?

The program’s main goal is to build research capacity in low and middle income countries (LMIC). The ISN therefore prefers the projects to be as locally led and managed as possible in the LMIC and requests that the Principal Investigator (as listed in the application and program documents) is based in the LMIC. The collaborators/co-investigators can be from a high income country (HIC). Collaborative applications between two institutions from an LMIC and a HIC are of course welcomed but applications should clearly demonstrate the key role and benefits in regards to the LMIC.

More details regarding this matter can be found in the ‘Guidelines for Applicants’ document to be downloaded from the submission website:

<http://cr.theisn.org/res/p/guidelines/>.

When do I send my proposal to my Regional Coordinator? And why?

Your relevant Regional Coordinator must receive your project proposal at least 1 month prior to the online submission deadline. The coordinator has the task of assessing all project proposals from their region in order to make sure they are feasible, relevant and of a sufficient standard. If you are indicating that your proposal addresses a regional priority, this should be substantiated in the letter. The coordinator may provide the applicant with feedback to make the proposal more competitive. Once the coordinator is satisfied, he/she will provide you with a letter of approval (a necessary document without which you can not submit an application).

This means that your proposal must be sent to the coordinator by APRIL 1st for being able to submit your finalized application online by MAY 1st.

Who is my Regional Coordinator?

Please see the 'Contact' tab on the submission website via <http://cr.theisn.org/res/p/who-to-contact/> for the full list of Coordinators and their email addresses.

Can I start the online application without the Regional Coordinator's letter?

You can create an account (sign-up) for yourself, input basic information about yourself (name, address, contact details), your institute, and your project (title, duration, co-investigators). You will, however, not be able to progress to the other sections without first uploading the approval letter from your regional coordinator.

You can, however, take a look at what you will be expected to provide in the subsequent application pages and prepare it in advance or while you await your coordinator's assessment (See below question on further documentation).

What additional documentation will I need to prepare/submit for the application?

Besides the Regional Coordinator's letter of approval, you will need to submit/prepare:

- Concept summary (maximum 0.5 pages),
- Project description (maximum 6 pages), including Specific aims, background and rationale, methods, research team, institutional environment, significance,
- Timelines (Gantt chart),
- Relevant references,
- Detailed budget,
- Patient Information Sheet and Informed Consent Form.

Please read the exact requirements as detailed in the CRP 'Guidelines for Applicants' document that can be downloaded from the submission website via <http://cr.theisn.org/res/p/guidelines/>.

Several complete EXAMPLES of successful applications can be found on the submission website via <http://cr.theisn.org/res/p/example/>

Can someone else complete and submit the online application in my name?

If, for example, the applicant/ Principal Investigator has trouble with English and requires someone else to complete the application and carry out any processes linked to an eventual successful application, they can indeed do so. We recommend, that the person filling out the form should open the account (when signing-up) with their name and e-mail address, thereby ensuring that any email correspondence will come to them. The name and details of the actual project owner/Principal Investigator needs to be completed in the application form itself.

When does the online system open for accepting new applications?

The online system accepts new applications from approximately 3 months prior to the final application deadline, i.e. as of FEBRUARY for the May 1st deadline.

Do all applications need to be submitted online?

Yes, we only accept applications that have been submitted online via the dedicated website <http://cr.theisn.org>

Help, I'm having sign-in and password issues with the online submission site!

The dedicated online submission site (<http://cr.theisn.org>) is separate to the ISN membership portal and does therefore not recognize your ISN membership password. A separate password is required. If you have never before had an account in one of ISN's FluidReview sites (each ISN Program manages its applications via this platform) you will need to first SIGN-UP and create an account on the right hand side of the screen.

If your troubles persist, please try to first use the 'trouble signing-in?' link that is provided next to the Sign-in button. If this still doesn't help, please contact us via crp@theisn.org

Can I reapply if my previous project proposal was unsuccessful?

In case of submission of the SAME PROJECT: a project proposal that was unsuccessful in a previous round can indeed be resubmitted. In this case, the feedback that was provided by the review committee (if any) for the previous application and the comments provided by the regional coordinator must be adequately addressed. The proposal will again need to be submitted to the regional coordinator for their assessment and letter of approval (by the indicated deadlines).

Project proposals may be resubmitted a maximum of two times in subsequent application rounds; i.e. one initial submission and 2 resubmissions.

Please note that your initial project application stays available in the system for one year; you can therefore edit and resubmit the initial application. If your application dates from further back and is no longer available to you, please send us an email at crp@theisn.org and ask us to reactivate it for you.

In case of submission of ANOTHER PROJECT: new project proposals can be submitted. All criteria and processes remain the same.

Can I reapply if my previous project was accepted and has come to an end?

In case of EXTENSION of same project: a project that has passed its planned duration/come to term and has used up the allocated funds can reapply for an extension provided the grand total of all allocated funds over the different application rounds does not surpass 20.000 USD. So if your project, as described in the initial plan, has terminated and received a grant of 15.000 USD, you can re-apply for a further 5.000 USD. This allocation/acceptance will be dependent on the submitted application and review of the extended project proposal; the process remains competitive and a positive outcome is not guaranteed.

In case of submission of ANOTHER PROJECT: new project applications from previously funded applicants are accepted. However, one should note that one of the program's key components is to build capacity; therefore, persons who apply again should ideally make a strong case for a) why they needs/are deserving of another ISN grant, and b) how the grant (if successful) would benefit other applicants other than themselves and build capacity in the region.

Can I submit an application for a research project that has already started?

Yes, we can accept applications for projects that have already commenced, provided the project has not yet been finalized and is still being conducted. Funds can only be requested for activities that have not occurred prior to the release of funds (activities cannot be funded retrospectively).

Can I access/resubmit previous project applications if they were unsuccessful, not submitted or withdrawn?

If your project application was UNSUCCESSFUL: i.e. submitted for review but denied. It will remain active and accessible to you in the system for approximately one year; you can therefore edit it and resubmit it (approval letter must have a recent date). After one year we will archive the application*.

If you started an application but NEVER SUBMITTED: it for review it will remain active, accessible and editable to you in the system for approximately one year. After one year we will archive the application*.

If you opted to WITHDRAW your application from a round: it will no longer be accessible to you; we can however reactivate withdrawn applications for your future usage*.

*Please note that we can reactivate archived and withdrawn applications and make them re-accessible to you. In this case you must send an email to crp@theisn.org and specifically request its reactivation.

When and how are the results announced?

The results are announced to each participant personally via email. The results can be expected between 2-3 months after the submission deadline has passed. We acknowledge the process may seem a lengthy one, but please bear in mind that the following processes take time: checking for completion, the committee review/scoring duration, further deliberations after review by the chair, confirming with potential sponsors and budget feasibility assessments all take their time.

How can I get help in setting up a research project and/or to write and publish my paper?

The ISN has established a Mentorship Program through which applicants can be matched with a suitable mentor in the area for which they require guidance. One of the areas for which you can seek such counselling from an experienced mentor is in the setting up of Research Projects. Please submit your application via <https://isn-researchmentor.fluidreview.com/>.

Please note that matches with a mentor are not guaranteed (but we do our best) and that any help from an ISN mentor in the setting up of a research project will not guarantee success subsequent applications to the ISN Clinical Research program; the process remains competitive and therefore depends who you are up against in any given application round.

Budget question - Can I use my grant for anything study-related, such as the printing of the thesis?

Yes, this is permissible as long as the grant money is used in relation to work concerning the approved research project. In case of hesitation regarding appropriate usage of funds, please send us a message to crp@theisn.org. You will be asked to provide a brief breakdown of used funds during the annual reporting process.

Budget question - Can I use the remaining funds for an extension of my existing project, as opposed to resubmitting a new application?

Yes, this can be requested and is dependent on the review and approval of the Chair. Please send us a 1-page summary including: what you plan to study and the costs involved (budget breakdown of usage of remaining funds).

Budget question - Can I use the remaining funds for another project?

No, using remaining funds for another (non-awarded) project is not appropriate. Please note that you will be asked to provide a brief breakdown of used funds during the annual reporting process. ISN relies on your conscientiousness to return any unused funds, which may in turn benefit others as it has benefitted you. Please see below for instructions on how you can return the funds.

Budget question - How can I transfer my remaining funds back to the ISN?

After having submitted your final report along with the 'budget usage breakdown' section, you can send us a quick email to crp@theisn.org to let us know about your intent to wire us back the funds. You can let us know at that time if you require an official invoice.
